I played the Mrs. "Listen to the Music" last night, and she was equally awestruck. This band has a sound that can just knock you down. They could easily appear on a bill with Alison Krauss, but they could just as easily appear with Rascal Flatts, and hard-core "Country" fans would come away from the experience buzzing about the talented Foxes.

"Listen to the Music," unfortunately out of print now, is by far the best book of its kind I've ever found, full of essential information about much of the classical orchestral repertoire (symphonies, concertos, and tone poems). There are a few used copies of this book still out there, though, many in very good condition.
