deliverer, band-aid, jello, herbs, surgery, etc. These do not have to make sense! Stream of consciousness is best. Use a thesaurus once you've emptied your brain. Then write God a little letter thanking him for this attribute. Try to use the unusual things that came to mind like a mother placing a band-aid on a wound.

Personalise it as much as you can. But the Bible is not the sole
source of inspiration
for our worship.
Creation itself has
prompted poets,
lyricists and writers
through the ages to pour out their worship
to God. Consider this

10 Tips for Writing Worship Songs - Church Leaders

This is not a "how to"
on songwriting, but rather on writing
worship songs.

Obviously, basic
songwriting talent is required to write a
good worship song,
and musical ability
does not hurt either.
